Certificates: In addition to receiving a Certificate from ILEETA and the specific company instructor certifications, all participants will receive a certificate from Illinois Northeast Multi-Regional Training (NEMRT) upon completion of NEMRT registration forms. The training may be recognized by your state through a state-to-state reciprocal training agreement.

NEMRT is authorized to conduct State of Illinois approved law enforcement training by the State of Illinois Law Enforcement Training and Standards Board. Conference attendees should check with their individual state to see that this law enforcement training is recognized.

Best Practices in Law Enforcement Training, presented by nationally renowned speaker and legal expert Randy Means, a practicing attorney on Saturday, April 5, 2008, from 1:15 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. This captivating and nationally respected speaker will address how changes in the law and in society have made law enforcement an increasingly complex business. Injury and death are daily concerns. Lawsuits against police have increased dramatically. Huge financial losses result when tough decisions go wrong. Today's lawsuits challenge a broad array of administrative and operational dynamics; systems of policy, training, supervision and discipline are closely scrutinized. Solutions are complex. Any and all law enforcement officers, spouses and significant others can attend this course for FREE.

Instructor Liability Insurance "We worked for over 2 years to get the best training liability policy available for the members of ILEETA. This was a very time consuming process. We could have had a very inferior policy available a few years ago, which was the type of policy that is still being marketed to law enforcement trainers. We weren't going to reinvent the broken wheel. This policy offers the type of protection that law enforcement trainers need, and at an affordable price. We're glad that we were able to offer this policy solely to the members of ILEETA."
